

How to prepare for the new digital society

This digital society is not deliberately designed; it emerges as the sum of all digital interactions of its members — people, organizations and things.

This Infographic shows how people, organizations and things interact. This interaction forms ecosystems, and the totality of these ecosystems forms our civilization's digital infrastructure. This in turn forms the digital society when it comes alive, as people use the digital infrastructure to interact.

Level 3: ...brought to life, creating the digital society.

Level 2: The totality of ecosystems forms civilization's digital infrastructure

Level 1: People, organizations and things form ecosystems

Level 0: People, organizations and things interact

